Such situations are derogatory to the character of a man; and where they can be submitted to, honor cannot reside. To all these are to be added the numerous-dependants, the long list of the younger branches and distant relations, who are to be provided for at the public expense: in short, were an estimation to be made of the charge of the aristocracy to a nation, it will be found nearly equal to that of supporting the poor. The duke of Richmond alone (and there are cases similar to his) takes away as much for himself, as would maintain two thousand poor and aged persons. Is it, then, any wonder, that under such a system of government, taxes and rates have multiplied to their present extent? In stating these matters, I speak an open and disinterested lai guage, dictated by no passion but that...
